Where was the family in the 1850 U. S. Census? Andrew (the son of Andrew Lytle and Sarah Davidson) was listed as a blacksmith, family #78, Utah, Utah Territory

Which Pioneer wagon train took the family west? Andrew (the son of Andrew Lytle and Sarah Davidson) first came to the Valley from California as discharged member of the Mormon Battalion. In that eastbound company, he served as 2nd lieutenant. He continued on to Winter Quarters to collect his family. They returned to the Valley together the following year with the Willard Richards company.

This company was composed of 117 returning Mormon Battalion veterans. They traveled over the Sierra Mountains from the Cosumnes River near Sutter's Fort in California. From the beginning, they divided and traveled separately in small groups, but generally within a few day's distance from each other. After crossing the mountains, they followed a course which took them to Fort Hall and then to Salt Lake Valley.
