From Caroline Beard Tippetts Barney Autobiography, "I was born in East Virginia, Salvoon Co., (Salvoon = Sullivan Co) in the year of 1826 on the 15th of January. I lived in Virginia nine years and then emigrated with my father and mother to Indiana in Clinton Co. and lived there nine years and there I joined the Mormon Church and was married to a man named Alva L. Tippetts who was a missionary preacher of the Mormon Church. Then I emigrated with my husband and folks to Illinois, Nauvoo, Hancock Co. We reached there in the year 1843 and lived there till the year 1846 and then we crossed the Mississippi River with President Young and Heber C. Kimball Company, and camped seven miles the other side of the Mississippi. Then we camped at a place called Sugar Creek. Here we stayed till spring (1847), and then we started for Council Bluffs. Then we crossed the Missouri River and located on a place called Winter Quarters and in the year 1847 crossed by at the east side and lived there till the year 1852. Then we came across the plains and come to the Rocky Mountains. "I was the daughter of Christian BEARD and Margaret Almenroad BEARD. I was married at the age of 22 years (to second husband). My (first) husband died leaving me with my two children. Seven weeks after I had a baby boy. My two children before my husband's death died and my only child left was a boy named Joseph TIPPITTES. After my husband had been dead about two and a half years I again married a man by the name of Benjamin BARNEY. I had nine children by him. I had twelve children altogether, ten sons and two daughters, but six lies buried now."
